Natural hazards, fragile environments, and human communities meet

On the Shores of Paradise (UH Press)

Charles Fletcher fletcher@soest.hawaii.edu

Robynne Boyd hiawyn@yahoo.com, Rikki Grober-Dunsmore rikki.dunsmore@noaa.gov

William J. Neal nealw@gvsu.edu, Virginia Tice virginia.tice@gmail.com

Chapter 1 – O ka makapo wale no ka mea hapapa i ka pouli

“If you're going nowhere, you're guaranteed to get there”

Management of our shores .......................................................................................... 7

Chapter 2 – He ali‘i nō ka ‘āina, ke kauwā wale ke kanaka

“The land is the chief, the people merely servants”

History of the land ........................................................................................................... 9

Chapter 3 – Kukulu-o-ka-honua - “Pillars of Earth”

Volcanism among the islands ........................................................................................ 13

Chapter 4 – Nei ka honua, he ola‘i ia - “When Earth trembles it is an earthquake”

Earthquakes and tsunamis .............................................................................................. 18

Chapter 5 – Hahai no ka ua i ka ulula‘au - “The rain follows after the forest”

Climate and water resources ......................................................................................... 22

Chapter 6 – ‘Awiwi! Awiwi! O pea o’e I ka wai! - “Quick, quick or the waters will stop you”

Flooding and mass wasting .......................................................................................... 20

Chapter 7 – O Ka mea ukuhi ka I ike I ka lepo o ka wasi; o ka mea inu ‘a’ole ‘oia I ‘ike

“He who dips knows how dirty the water is, but he who drinks does not.

He who does the work knows what trouble it takes, he who receives it does not.”

Sewage treatment and polluted runoff ........................................................................ 26

Chapter 8 – Malama o kekai, kekai o ke malama

“Take care of the ocean and the ocean will take care of you”

Climate Change and Sea-Level Rise ........................................................................... 22

Chapter 9 – Coastal Erosion and Beach Loss .................................................................. 20

Chapter 10 - Hanau ka ‘Uku-ko‘ako’a, hanu kana, he ‘Ako‘ako’a, puka

“Born was the coral polyp, born was the coral, came forth”

Reefs and overfishing ..................................................................................................... 30
Table of Contents

Chapter 11 – Hurricanes ........................................................................................................... 20

Chapter 12 - ‘Ua Mau Ke Ea O Ka ‘Āina I Ka Pono

“The life of the land is perpetuated in righteousness”

Summary ........................................................................................................................................... 8